JUDGES NAMED FOR THE WESTMINSTER

Theodore Crane Said To Be Chosen to Award Blues to Dalmatians.

Judging from the recent victories of American-breds in various breeds, one almost tempted to say that the breeders in Europe will have to look to their laurels if the intended "invasion" planned by several of our noted ex-planned by several of our noted exhibitors is carried out.

At the Eastern Dog Club's annual show, at Boston, where nearly 800 of the world's best competed, the "piece de resistance" of the show, the president's cup, for best of all breeds, was awarded to the Airedale Champion Vickery Soubrette, which beat the best collection of imported winners ever assembled. Soubrette, although owned by the Vickery Kennels, of Chicago, was bred in Boston by George S. West, the president of the Eastern Dog Club, and is by Endeliffe Commander, ex Gamecock Sally. She has also won this coveted prize at other important shows, so her win here was in no sense a fluke.

At the annual show of the Pekingese Clab at the Plaza, where two American-breds were placed over all of the imported cracks in dogs, the now famous Hop Ting of Downshire, bred by Mrs. Morris Mandy, of New York City, which is a son of the noted international winner Wung Lung, owned by Mrs. Thomas G. Sherwood, was invincible, while in the opposite sex Nowata Motchektin, a deen red, bred and owned by Mrs. M. E. Harby, of Huntington, Long Island, not only defeated all of her sex, but eventually won the largest list of trophies ever awarded to any one exhibit.

Then followed the Albany competition, the day after the Plaza show, where the success of American-breds was also truly phenomenal. Buildogs found Drewstone Pike, Mrs. William T. Drew's noted white and brindle, easily the best in its sex. In Pekingese, Mrs. Gertrade L. Heyward wentright through the classes with her some-bred champion, Fan Tan of Esterro was bred by Mrs. Heyward, and is also by Wung Lung, as is the following well known winners: Mi Lung, novice winner at the Plaza; Sin Fat, Mrs. Ruth Sire's well known winning puppy; Nowata Chuty, and Nowata Plum Jam, and Dictor, Mary Colton's successful parti-color, possibly the best string of American-breds ever sired by an American owned Pekingese.

The winner was Qui Vive, a very promising black brindle from Brooklyn, bred and owned by Grant Notman, which had an easy victory over the wee reddish brindle Prince de Savoy Little Boy, much above the average, but far too young for competition. Novice dogs were a good let and took some judging. The victory of Little Porthos, owned and shown by Mrs. J. Baird, of Brooklyn, was greeted with much applause, this being the first time in four years that Mrs. Baird has exhibited. Little Porthos won easily, Qui Vive, lacking the finish of face of the winner, was second. Then came the most impressive dog in the class, General Hunk, an exceptionally typical light brindle, which when standing still seemed the easiest kind of winner, but

Thave been asked what policy combined to the Board of Health as a substitute for the unnecessarily severe and drastic measures advocated by Dr. Goldwater, who publicly announces his purpose is eventually to make 'New York a dogless city.'

"The following are some recommendations which I believe are along sane and reasonable lines and which would be supported by a large majority of true dog lovers:

"First—Modification of the present muzzling ordinance, so that all dogs must be either on leash or properly muzzled while on public highways and in public places.

"Second—An ordinance which will require all dogs to be licensed. The license tag to be large enough to be easily distinguished by officers while on duty on the streets; the shape or color to be changed each year so as to be easily distinguished (owners to be urged to put their name and address on reverse side of license tag).

"Third—Strict enforcement of the two above ordinances, aided by the active co-operation of all true dog lovers.

"This committee should be truly representative of dog owners and dog lovers, and could be selected annually at a caucus of representatives from every recognized dog and kennel association and humane association interested in improving canine conditions New York City.
